

Come live, play and work in beautiful Chilliwack, BC at a growing midwifery clinic, while enjoying autonomy as a care provider!

Our city has grown rapidly and so has the demand for our care. Family First Midwifery & Wellness is hiring. We enjoy referrals from local providers as well as repeat clients. Our space is bright and cheery in a highly convenient location where prenatal & breastfeeding classes are taught, along with other services available to families.

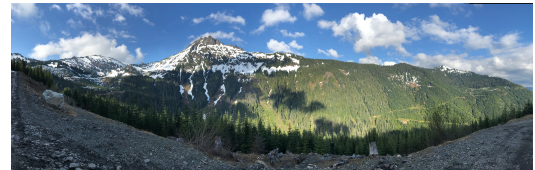

Support staff goes above and beyond so that you can focus on being a midwife and providing excellent client care.

Chilliwack is lush with mountains, rivers, lakes and some of the best hiking in the lower mainland. Its a short drive to downtown Vancouver for day trips and close enough to the BC Okanagan valley to go for weekend trips. The city is family friendly with great schools and loads of extracurricular programs in the community. We even have our own area for our local community hockey team!

Due to physician retirement and area wide growth we have been asked to bring more midwives into the community to fill the gap. We enjoy collegial and supportive working relationships with nursing staff & physicians. Our unit is cozy, with a positive team-work culture, is focused on evidenced based care and has its own high risk OR on the unit. Our OB's do not do primary care maternity and our extremely supportive in facilitating us to practice to full scope, including preceptoring to become certified in the c-section first assist course and the induction of labour course.

Ideal candidates will be articulate, evidence based, have strong communication & interpersonal skills, good sense of humour and work well with others while still being able to respectfully advocate for themselves and people in their care. Candidates with an interest in, and open to a collaborative care model with work/life balance are encouraged to apply as this is something our local GP maternity group has expressed a strong desire to explore with midwives. Flexibility for supportive solo or team based care will be considered.

New, general and internationally trained registrants are welcome to apply. Send questions and your resume with letter of interest to:

winifred@familyfirstmidwifery.ca