

The Pointe-Saint-Charles community clinic is searching for two bilingual midwives. We have started our midwifery services one year ago in the south-west of Montreal, Quebec. Our services are addressed in priority to women and families with vulnerability issues and we need your help.

We are actually able to respond to 16% of the requests for complete courses of care. 60% of the families comes from our neighborhood, so a very local service that addresses partly the need.

To be able to offer more courses of care, we need more midwives. You are bilingual would love to work in Montreal? We're just waiting for you!

Go read on the clinic's website <https://ccpsc.qc.ca/en/mws>

It is unique in Quebec, the only public first line clinic that is not part of the CI(U)SSS, huge health facilities that resulted from the last fusion in our health services.

It is a community clinic in the whole meaning of the word « community », rich of its long experience (50 years of presence) and links in the community, with a board of directors mainly composed of citizens, where empowerment and self determination of health is prioritized. Contact me if you have any questions and I'd be glad to share a bit more of our story. Please also let the message out for any midwives you think could be interested.
